Preventing victims by changing lives

About the Department

The Department

Her Majesty's Prison and Probation Service (HMPPS) is an Executive Agency of the Ministry of Justice. Our role is to commission and provide offender management services in the community and in custody ensuring best value for money from public resources.

We are responsible for:

- protecting the public
- reducing reoffending
- delivering the punishment and orders of the Courts
- supporting rehabilitation by helping offenders to reform their lives

Our Vision

Working together to protect the public and help people lead law-abiding and positive lives.

Our Values

Purpose – We implement the sentences and orders of the Courts. We prevent victims by changing lives.

Humanity – We believe that lives can change for the better. We work to encourage hope and to provide opportunities for rehabilitation. We treat everyone with decency and respect.

Openness – We are fair. We know that clear and just decisions make a difference in our work. We are transparent about what we do and look to learn and innovate to do better.

Together – We value diversity. We work across prisons, probation and youth custody and with our partners and providers to make a positive difference to communities.

Our People Plan Commitments

Our Responsibilities

We're responsible for:

- preparing pre-sentence reports for courts, to help them select the most appropriate sentence
- managing approved premises for offenders with a residence requirement on their sentence
- assessing offenders in prison to prepare them for release on licence to the community, when they will come under our supervision
- helping all offenders serving sentences in the community to meet the requirements ordered by the courts
- communicating with and prioritising the wellbeing of victims of serious sexual and violent offences, when the offender has received a prison sentence of 12 months or more, or is detained as a mental health patient

Diversity , Inclusion and Equality

We want everyone to feel valued, supported and comfortable being their true self at work. We are proud to be a diverse and inclusive employer, supporting social mobility, giving opportunities to people no matter what their background. That's why we have several staff diversity networks that cover race, disability, LGBTQ, gender, religion and carers. You'll be able join any of these networks when you join us and getting involved is easy.

When you join us, you join a friendly and helpful community. We'll give you the support you need to grow in confidence, help you enjoy your time inside and outside the work place ensuring you have a good work-life balance.

We believe that we are a great place to work.

Our Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

We welcome and encourage applications from everyone irrespective of background, identity, experience or circumstance, and particularly those underrepresented in our workforce. We strive for a workforce that is representative of our society and pride ourselves as being an employer of choice. It's vital that our justice system is as diverse as the society we serve.

When people come to work for us we want them to feel safe and that they belong, are treated with empathy and respect, and have the support and solidarity of their colleagues and managers, so we can all deliver our services fairly and in response to individual needs. In joining us, you join an organisation which is committed to the values of humanity, openness, together and purpose.

The Role

Probation Services Officer

As a probation services officer (PSO), you will undertake the full range of work with offenders before and after sentence, and in the community. This includes:

- assessment
- sentencing
- managing offenders throughout their conviction
- report-writing.

You will assess and manage the risk posed by offenders to protect victims of crime and support their rehabilitation.

Depending on which role in the PSO job family you undertake you will:

- assess and manage risks to keep the community safe
- provide information to courts and
- work closely with agencies throughout the justice system carrying out risk management and collaborating with them to protect the public
- deliver programmes to support

Most importantly, whatever the role, you'll do everything you can to support offenders. That might mean providing practical advice about housing and employment, or something as simple as listening and understanding.

Your Working Environments

As a Probation Services Officer you will be allocated to any one of the following work environments.

Once in post, there may be later opportunities to move into different work environments, depending on caseload and business need.

The following pages detail the different roles in the PSO Job Family you may be allocated to...

Your Working Environments

Accredited Programmes Facilitator

The role of an accredited programmes facilitator is to deliver a range of programmes which are evidence informed and accredited, designed to provide opportunities to change thinking, attitudes and behaviours associated with offending, for those assessed as posing a medium or above risk of recidivism within a group work setting.

The skills required are varied and once trained you will be able to demonstrate effective interpersonal skills particularly the social/cognitive skills that the facilitator wants the group participants to acquire in order for them to live offence free lives. By maintaining an environment which encourages learning, facilitators will use motivational interviewing skills to encourage and promote effective problem solving, perspective taking, well developed values, emotional management whilst maintaining focus on aspects such as individual need and responsiveness to the intervention. You will be supported by a Treatment Manager throughout your programme delivery and will be expected to develop your skills from feedback received about performance which may come from direct observation or video monitoring.

Community Payback

Community Payback aims to provide people on probation with an interesting and stimulating range of work to enable them to recognise and use the many skills that they possess and to develop new ones. At the same time, it is necessary to provide fair but firm treatment for our people on probation. We expect a high standard of supervision and leadership from colleagues to ensure that the scheme develops in a positive way and to ensure that we maintain confidence in sentencers, partner agencies and local communities. A major cornerstone in the operation of the scheme is the interest, skills, enthusiasm, control, discipline, motivation and Pro Social Modelling of Community Payback colleagues

Your Working Environments

Courts

You'll need to be able to quickly build a rapport with the service user to understand their circumstances as you may only see the individual a few times. Working in a court, you will need to be a confident presenter as you will have to make recommendations in front of the court.

Prison

The Community Integration Team (CIT) PSO will be embedded in the prison establishments identifying immediate needs and pre-release support via the Basic Custody Screen Tool, supporting with referrals to relevant providers including the Commissioned Rehabilitative Providers. The CIT PSO will provide immediate needs and pre-release support for unconvicted people in prison. They will also act as a point of contact for those People in Prison being released outside of the West Midlands region.

Your Working Environments

Probation Office

As an offender manager in a probation office, you'll be working with an offender over a period of time and will need to be able to build a relationship and make recommendations. You will need to support, as well as have tough conversations with the individual.

Short Term Custody Team

The role and focus of the PSO in the Short Term Sentence team will be to work with people on probation with 10 months or less to serve in prison to ensure services are sustained and provided, relationships are built, and transitions are supported as effectively as possible. Through this work we aim to reduce recall and reoffending rates.

Your Working Environments

Victims

The Victim Liaison Officer engages with Statutory and discretionary victims of serious violent and sexual offences (Schedule 15) to provide an opportunity to be updated at key stages of progression through sentence.

The Victim Liaison Officer:

- Engages with the Parole Board, Mental Health Tribunals and other decision makers to provide Victim Personal Statements, victim views and requests.
- Contributes to release plans and licence conditions.
- Ensures that victims' interests are presented to MAPPA, Deportation and Risk Management Plans

Victim Liaison Officers work with Prison Offender Managers, Community Offender Managers, Police, Homicide Services, Social Services and many other professionals involved in providing victim services.

Your Working Patterns

The information offered in this document is supplied in good faith but does not in itself form any part of the contract of employment.

Appointment Term: This post is offered as a permanent appointment and is subject to a six month probationary period

Working Arrangements: This role is available on a full-time basis; we will also consider some flexible working options

Working Hours: 37 hours per week, excluding lunch breaks

For existing civil servants appointed on promotion, basic hours of work will be 37 hours per week, excluding lunch breaks. For existing civil servants appointed on level transfer, your current contractual entitlements in relation to basic hours of work will continue to apply

There may be a requirement to work some evenings and weekends

Alternative working patterns may be considered subject to business need

The Skills You Need

When we receive your application, we look for three main things which will contribute to your eligibility:

- the right to work in the UK
- minimum C-grade GCSEs or equivalent or relevant work experience including sufficient writing skills
- experience working with challenging individuals.

We want you, not your qualifications

The role requires certain skills and experience, but for us, your personal qualities are just as important. To help people change, you'll need to be empathetic, patient and resilient. Perhaps you've already worked with people who have social or personal difficulties. Maybe you have worked or volunteered with non-profit organisations to help change lives. Whatever your experience, you'll have strong writing and communication skills and be confident and competent at producing clear, accurate reports to demanding deadlines. This is something you'll be tested on as part of the recruitment process.

We're also looking for people who are enthusiastic and ready to learn. In your first months, you'll get a lot of training, both formally and on the job. You'll be supported by your team throughout, and you'll be there for them in turn. But you'll go beyond being collaborative: you'll be flexible too, adapting to changes as they arise and working fast to resolve problems.
