Welcome to the Office of the Public Guardian (OPG)

“ Thank you for your interest in a career at the Office of the Public Guardian (OPG). ”

OPG offers a great opportunity to contribute to some vital work which will only increase in its significance as we react to the needs of an ageing population. Simply put, our purpose is to protect adults at risk and support them to make their own decisions – you can come into the office every day knowing you’re making a difference to people’s lives.

We work hard to make OPG a brilliant place to work, putting our values at the heart of everything we do. We’re passionate about inclusion and creating a sense of belonging for all our people. With a wide range of staff networks, there’s rarely a week that passes without an opportunity to celebrate and embrace our successes and our diversity. We also place a value on learning, training and flexible working.

The following pages of this pack will tell you more about OPG and the nature of the role you’re applying for.

If you believe you have the experience and qualities we’re seeking, we look forward to hearing from you.

Nick Goodwin

Public Guardian

About the OPG

Role and Responsibilities

The Office of the Public Guardian (OPG) is an executive agency of the Ministry of Justice (MOJ).

Our Chief Executive, Nick Goodwin, is responsible to the Lord Chancellor and Secretary of State for Justice for the effective operation of the agency.

OPG supports the Public Guardian in carrying out the legal functions of the Mental Capacity Act 2005. The Act protects people in England and Wales who do not have the mental capacity to make certain decisions for themselves in relation to their health and welfare or property and financial affairs. OPG has a role in supporting and providing safeguarding to the adults at risk who we come into contact with.

OPG is responsible for

Registering lasting and enduring powers of attorney (LPAs and EPAs) so that people can choose who they want to make certain decisions on their behalf, if they lose capacity to make those decisions for themselves.

Maintaining the public register of attorneys and deputies appointed by the Court of Protection.

Supervising deputies appointed by the Court of Protection, making sure they carry out their responsibilities in the best interests of their clients and in line with the requirements of the Mental Capacity Act, and carrying out investigations and taking action where there are concerns about an attorney or deputy.

OPG Values

PURPOSE

Justice matters. We are proud to make a difference for the public we serve.

OPENNESS

We innovate, share, and learn. We are courageous and curious, relentlessly pursuing ideas to improve the services we deliver.

HUMANITY

We treat others as we would like to be treated. We value everyone, supporting and encouraging them to be the best they can be.

TOGETHER

We listen, collaborate and contribute, acting together for our common purpose.

OPG Locations

Axis Building, 10 Holliday Street, Birmingham, B1 1TF

Next door to the Mailbox, the nearest train stations are Birmingham New Street, Moor Street and Snow Hill, all a short walk away.

There is no onsite car parking available.

A secure bike shed is available for cyclists.

In late 2021 we will be moving to two new premises within Central Birmingham. One will remain in the City Centre and one will be outside of the city close to public transport links.

Embankment House, Waterside Business Park, Electric Avenue, Nottingham, NG80 1EH

The nearest train station is Nottingham and you can get to Embankment House by catching the Navy 49 or 48 buses from next to the station, Monday to Friday, every 15 minutes (journey time of approximately 8 minutes).

Limited onsite car parking is available on a rota basis along with a bike storage facility.

What's it like to work for OPG?

“ My role is to help the business understand its performance and impact on our customers. When I joined OPG I was also training as a Magistrate and OPG really supported me. Flexible working helped me do my training alongside my job. I've been doing both roles ever since. I've worked at OPG for 10 years and that feeling of helping people is what makes me want to come to work every day. ”

Supriya, Performance Manager

“ I'm proud to work at the OPG because it has given me the right support I need in order to progress and I have met a lot of good people. ”

Aaron, General Case Manager

“ I joined OPG as an Administrative Officer from the private sector and the biggest difference was the purpose of my role. Previously, I'd only worked for profit organisations where the main objective was to maximise company revenue. At OPG our goal is to protect and safeguard vulnerable adults and it's great knowing my work will help someone and I can play my part serving society. ”

Sunyana, Project Support Manager

“ Every day I am surrounded by colleagues offering fantastic support to our customers and to each other. ”

Nuala, Deputy Head of Supervision and Investigations Services

“ Someday we will all be our clients and someone needs to be there to look out for them. I'm proud to be one of those people. ”

Harry, Senior Investigator

“ I am proud to work at OPG because I see first-hand the positive difference we make to countless people who are facing emotionally difficult and challenging situations. ”

Ali, Deputy Head of Power of Attorney Services

Career progression potential at OPG

Stephen talks about the opportunities he's had to develop his career at OPG.

“ I joined OPG as an Administrative Assistant (Band E). I got on really well with my new colleagues but wanted to get more experience and successfully applied to be an Executive Officer (Band D) line manager. My new role was brilliant and I gained a lot of valuable experience very quickly.

I moved roles, into IT Support, getting new experiences, new skills and seeing new areas of the business. I loved the job. I had a high-level of autonomy, and it was a problem-solving role which fitted me to the core.

I moved again, to the Continuous Improvement team. The problem-solving aspect appealed massively to me. It was a fantastic role – really understanding how each part of the business worked and collaborated. Lots of training was made available too and I took every opportunity. I honed my mentoring skills which also developed me. I worked with the Investigations team who had a number of problems which provided opportunities to really improve customer service.

I successfully applied for a Senior Investigators (Band C) position and was tasked with trialling a new way of managing cases and training new Investigators. I really worked on my soft skills, which were my weakest - but this was a good opportunity to improve that.

The next opportunity was the role of Service Manager (Band B), it was the role for me. I was successful, and then worked really hard to add value to the business.

So, there's my career to date. I'm now in a place where I am thinking again about next steps, but I will follow my own advice and look for a role that interests and challenges me. ”

About the role

Salary

The starting salary for this role is £26,553

Existing Civil Servants will be appointed in line with the Civil Service pay rules in place on the date of their appointment.

Contract Type

Permanent

The Role

OPG is currently going through an extensive period of organisational change. This will be delivered by our transformation programme – “OPG 2025”. The ambitious plan is about changing the way we provide services. It will help us meet the growing needs of our users, partners and our stakeholders. It will make sure our users experience a better level of support. Overall, it will help us to respond to the changing needs of society. This is so we can better support adults at risk and create high-quality services that are accessible and affordable.

Our Birmingham office is located centrally within walking distance to Birmingham New Street, Moor Street and Snow Hill train stations as well as the Mailbox and Broad Street. You should note however that plans are in place to move into two new premises, one based in Birmingham city centre, the other outside the centre but within Birmingham. Both premises have yet to be disclosed with successful candidates being posted to either site.

Responsibilities may include any of the following, but not limited to:

- You will support and contribute to the aims, objectives and performance of the Office of the Public Guardian to ensure delivery targets, as set out in the Business Plan, are met.
- You will have the ability to adapt to differing business needs quickly, monitoring progress against targets and measures; proactively addressing resource and delivery pressures, taking a proportionate approach to risk, problem solving, adherence and assurance.
- You will plan and forecast resources in order to deliver operational objectives with the proper and efficient use of resources.
- You will be responsible for accurate and quality processing in order to reduce re-work and to ensure a high level of customer service. You'll oversee feedback from complaints and lessons learnt for your business area, as well as reviewing processes and making recommendations for improvement with the customer experience at the heart of everything we do.
- You will organise and participate in team meetings, developing close working relationships across operations and the wider organisation.
- You will act as a role model, demonstrating behaviours within the MOJ Leadership statement and the organisation's values.
- You will be clear, honest and transparent in your communication and management, making decisions that involve the relevant people at the right time, involving frontline staff in decision making where able.
- You will be responsible for and be open and comfortable with leading and engaging your team through periods of change, particularly 'OPG 2025'. You will deliver change and communication through being a positive, visible, approachable leader, inspiring trust by tackling difficult issues, obtaining feedback and creating a culture of inclusion and innovation.
- You will proactively develop and manage talent by promoting a learning environment to maximise team and individual performance and development e.g. taking responsibility in supporting staff through the appropriate training.
- You'll take responsibility for your own learning and development with the support and guidance of your line manager.

- You will positively promote and implement diversity, inclusion and equality of opportunity in all areas of work supporting initiatives within the organisation.
- You'll have a strong knowledge of HR policy where you will identify poor performance, attendance and conduct issues adopting a coaching style, for resolution, acting as appropriate in accordance with MOJ policy, whilst also recognising positive performance using reward and recognition schemes.
- You'll contribute to the development of smarter working across the department, reviewing more efficient, flexible and convenient ways of working, exploiting digital channels where possible.
- You'll take reasonable care for the health and safety of others and abide by relevant Health and Safety Procedures and policy.
- You may be asked to undertake ad hoc projects as agreed with the Operational Delivery Manager which are commensurate with the skill set of this post.

You will be required to work in a flexible way and undertake any other duties reasonably requested by line management which are commensurate with the grade and level of responsibility of this post. There may also be a requirement to work in different departments during the course of your employment, dependent on business needs.

Person Specification

The successful candidate should have the following essential skills.

Essential Skills

Essential:

- Ability to work at pace and meet challenging deadlines, which requires you to be flexible/adaptable, setting priorities as the workload and focus of the teams within your area change.
- Excellent interpersonal, verbal and written communication skills.
- Attention to detail, good analytical and problem-solving skills and an aptitude for long-term thinking.
- Leadership qualities and have an interest in developing yourself and those you manage, as well as being committed to improving team processes.
- Assurance of Business Quality and Performance expectations.
- Ability to work with a variety of internal and external customers at all levels.
- Experience of managing large operational teams
